Taking place in the historic St. Anne’s Hill neighborhood, just east of downtown, Dayton Porchfest celebrates our rich and diverse music scene, with musicians and bands covering funk and blues to indie rock and jazz, classical and country, to bluegrass and old timey that has deep Appalachian roots here. We also celebrate the ethnic diversity of the region, a reflection of our “Welcome Dayton” spirit that has contributed to a significant influx of immigrants and refugees over the past decade. And it all takes place in a family-friendly environment in the St. Anne’s Hill Historic District.

Dayton Porchfest is an initiative of The Collaboratory (www.daytoncollaboratory.org), a non-profit civic innovation lab located on Courthouse Square. The Collaboratory moves ideas to action by helping people and organizations to collaboratively develop community initiatives and enterprises that generate new economic, civic, social, cultural and creative opportunities and value. The result is a healthier, more thriving region. Proceeds from Porchfest go to support the work of The Collaboratory.
